THE ROSE TOURNAMENT

GLENDALE DELEGATES IN APPROPRIATE SETTING RIDE IN BEAUTIFUL PARADE

Glendale was well represented at Pasadena's Rose Tournament on New Year's day, although she did not loom very large among the 150,000 visitors who gathered to feast their eyes on the spectacle, said to be more beautiful than ever before, in spite of the fact that it was all arranged in a few weeks after having been practically abandoned on account of the ban imposed several weeks ago because of influenza. Spontaneous affairs are often more successful than the more studied efforts, and this seemed to be true of the floral parade.

Glendale's contribution was modest but appropriate—an auto handsomely decorated with greenery and poinsettias, in which rode Mayor Woodberry, T. W. Watson, city manager; Roy Kent, the contractor, and C. D. Lusby, the banker. As a further courtesy to Pasadena and evidence of friendly interest in its festival, Glendale also raised a fund with which to provide the "Kitty Band," one of the attractive novelties of the parade.

The spectators from Glendale went by all sorts of conveyance, in automobiles, with horses and by trolley, not a few taking the Eagle Rock car and going the balance of the distance on foot. All were agreed that it was a very beautiful display and that the first prize was properly awarded to Long Beach for a float wonderful in design, appropriate to the time and lovely in execution. Its central feature was a revolving wheel 15 feet in diameter, all of flowers, purple violets for the continents, the oceans of white carnations, above a platform of green and pink. Above it as a protecting guard was the American eagle, and grouped round about were figures representing the allied nations, appropriately costumed and united by a silver cord of unity, a herald with a silver horn well in advance of the group proclaiming peace.

The San Diego Chamber of Commerce entry won second prize; Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, third prize; San Bernardino National Orange Show, fourth prize; and South Pasadena, fifth prize.

The great feature of the Los Angeles entry was a magnificent floral arch of victory on which was emblazoned the shield of the United States in red and white carnations. South Pasadena had an army balloon floating over a field of flowers. Scotch heather and acacia was the groundwork of the beautiful decoration of the San Diego float, in which rode three beauties of that city. San Bernardino appropriately featured the orange which has made that municipality famous.

FAMILY TROPHIES FROM THE NORTH

R. W. Meeker of East Colorado Street returned December 24 from the North and straightway developed a case of influenza—a light one—to the amusement of his family, as he had felt quite superior when all the other members were down with it and he appeared to be immune. The doctor says it was in his system and bound to come out sooner or later. He is now quite well again.

While his errand north was a sad one, he had some interesting experiences in visiting old friends of the Meeker family and the old family homestead in Sonoma County. He brought home with him a box of apples from the orchard planted by his grandfather in 1849 or 1850 and said to be the first orchard established in California. The trees have grown to mammoth proportions and in spite of their great age are yielding 75 to 100 boxes of fruit every year, which is perfect and very beautiful.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING

The fourteenth anniversary of the local W. C. T. U. will be observed on Friday afternoon, Jan. 3, 1919, at the residence of Mrs. O. S. Palmer, 1008 Colorado Boulevard, at 2:30 o'clock. Committees will meet at 2 o'clock.

Personal reminiscences of the work will be given and the status of the ratification of the federal amendment will be discussed. All persons who have ever been connected with the organization elsewhere are cordially invited to attend, and all visitors will be welcome.

COMMUNITY SING

Glendallians are again reminded that the Community Sing will take place this (Thursday) evening at the High School auditorium at 7:45, with Professor Kirchoffer leading.

GREAT DAYS IN FRANCE

REV. B. DUDLEY SNUDDEN VISITS HEROES AND HISTORIC PLACES IN PARIS

Members of the First Methodist Church of Glendale and other friends of its former pastor, Rev. B. Dudley Snudden, will be greatly interested in the following extracts from his recent letters kindly furnished the Evening News by Mrs. Snudden, his wife, who is now sojourning with her mother at Yorba Linda, but who is still interested in Glendale and its people:

12 Rue d' Agriesseau, Paris, France, Nov. 22, 1918.

Yesterday afternoon I had one of the greatest privileges to date. I visited the Grand Palace, near the Place de la Concorde, which has been transformed into Le Ecole Professionnelle Education, where the crippled French soldiers are taught various trades and callings. Though broken in body, they will be self-supporting and useful citizens. It was a wonderful experience. The men who had lost limbs were fitted with artificial ones and taught to use hands and feet. Men with one hand or arm gone do great things with the other. One group was being taught drawing, plaster work and photo enlarging. One brave fellow won several medals but his right arm gone at the shoulder, was enlarging the photo of himself and his fiancée; and near him another man showed with evident pride and fine reverence in his voice and eyes, a head of Christ. If I never see things that were to be seen during the days of the fighting, I shall see things that will ever remain with me as things of inestimable worth.

This afternoon I went to base hospital 41, at St. Denis. Here the great old buildings and grounds of the Legion of Honor have been transformed into a hospital for the housing of far-away America's "Legion of Honor." In one of the large wards the cots, because of the framework built above them, look like a fantastic but miniature forest. The frames have been erected to hold the maimed limbs and broken bodies in place during the time of recovery. Truly to say a few kindly, cheering words was an act of divine ministry. And what brave fellows there were! Crippled, broken, maimed, but optimistic, cheerful, hopeful, generous. The Red Cross had just brought candy to them, and in spite of weariness and pain, they would share their candy with me. With such splendid fellows the cause of justice and right in the earth will always be safe. Now that the fighting is over and they carry the marks of their devotion to right, they are anxious to "get back to God's country." For what little I may do, and the great good it will do me, I shall try to keep in touch with the hospitals.

Nov. 24.—This afternoon I visited the monument Vendome, cast out of cannon captured by Napoleon; also visited the statue of Joan of Arc and one of Lafayette which was erected and paid for with money collected by the school children of America. I also visited Napoleon's tomb, but could not see the sarcophagus, which was hidden from view by sand bags piled about it until the circular vault was nearly full. Sand bag protectors are everywhere in Paris—a comment on the warfare of the Hun.

I suppose we shall be leaving for our various fields of work this week. It takes quite a little time to get permits and other things, without which one cannot travel in France. I am in the meantime kept very busy here at headquarters.

Nov. 26.—Being at work in a distant part of the city this afternoon, I went out to a little, out-of-the-way cemetery, and there stood in reverence, with bared head, before the tomb of the great Lafayette. To visit this tomb at this time in the world's history is surely a great privilege.

This evening just outside the office I had the pleasure of meeting Dr. Francis of Los Angeles and Dr. Truitt of Dallas, Texas. They have been over for some time in the British Isles.

This evening I met a "Y" secretary with the spiked helmet of a German officer for sale. I would like to have had it, but he wanted a great deal more than I could spare. But the spirit of one of the men of our boat as I said good-bye this evening (he leaves for his work tomorrow morning) found response in my heart. He said: "I am not here for souvenirs. I want to see the Holy Grail." Was not that a fine way of saying he wanted to feel the Master's spirit of service? As I meet our soldiers, especially the fellows from the hospitals, and just give them a word of greeting and see the look in their eyes when I speak of home and say a few words, I feel that even that (Continued on Page 2)

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE FROM EXILE

FRIEND OF FORMER CROWN PRINCE TO VISIT GERMANY AND ASK PERMIT FOR RETURN TO THAT COUNTRY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Wieringen, Holland, Jan. 2.—William Hohenzollern attempted, unsuccessfully, to escape from exile, it was reported today. Baron von Zu Belditz, a friend of the former crown prince, is reported to have gone to Germany to ask the government for a permit for Wilhelm to return. It is understood he will ask the German authorities to assign the crown prince a residence where he can live with his wife and children, under guard, if necessary.

POLISH INVASION ALARMS GERMANS

GERMAN ARMY AND NAVY FORCES ARE BEING MOBILIZED TO RESIST ITS ADVANCE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Berlin, Jan. 2.—The Polish army, advancing toward Berlin, has captured six German cities, according to information received here. Polish mobilization is alarming the German government. Counter measures are expected soon.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Berlin, Jan. 2.—Minister Noske of the army and navy has ordered a large army of German forces to oppose the Polish invasion. There is great alarm felt here.

AUTO THIEF KILLED BY OFFICERS

TWO CAPTURED OUT OF PARTY OF FIVE BANDITS, AFTER ABANDONING MACHINE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—Edwin McGlennon of San Francisco was killed by a San Bruno motorcycle officer today while attempting to escape with four companions. Two of the five were captured. They are alleged to have stolen an auto at the Fourteen-Mile house and the garage watchman pursued them. The men abandoned the machine close to a marsh and were captured nearby.

MOST POWERFUL WARSHIP AFLOAT

ELECTRICAL DRIVE OF DREADNAUGHT NEW MEXICO MARKS NEW ERA IN WARSHIP CONSTRUCTION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Jan. 2.—Capital ships of the future navy will be electrically driven, insuring superiority of the vessels over those of other nations, Secretary Daniels told the House naval committee today. The New Mexico, the first electrically driven dreadnaught, is the most powerful vessel in any navy in the world. It puts the electrical drive beyond the field of experimentation, the committee was told. The advantages claimed for electricity are: Twenty-five per cent saving in fuel, a saving of fuel and engine-space, as great a drive astern as ahead, economy of installation, greater endurance at a higher speed.

RAMIFICATIONS OF MEAT PACKING

TRADE COMMISSION INVESTIGATIONS SHOW THEIR ACTIVITIES EXTEND TO 9,000 UNRELATED PRODUCTS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Washington, Jan. 2.—Five leading meat packers are interested in 750 concerns, Chairman Colzer of the trade commission declared before the house interstate commerce committee today. They actually control 655 concerns dealing in meat and food and have a minor interest which will lead to control eventually in the remainder he said. The large packers have extended their activity in trading to nine thousand commodities, according to the statement of a wholesale grocer submitted by Chairman Colzer. Few of these are directly related to meat.

RESCUE EFFECTED BY TROLLEY BOAT

WOUNDED MEN FROM STRANDED NORTHERN PACIFIC WERE SAFELY LANDED TODAY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Fire Island, N. Y., Jan. 2.—With a calmer sea making the work of rescue less hazardous, 600 wounded men from the stranded transport, Northern Pacific, were landed safely this afternoon by means of a trolley boat. Some of the 2,545 troops were transferred to relief ships standing by. The vessel was driven further inshore during the night by a southeast wind, and is resting on an even keel in shallow water at low tide.

GIBBONS HEARING CONTINUED TO JANUARY 16

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Los Angeles, Jan. 2.—The preliminary hearing of Mrs. Gertrude Gibbons, accused of giving her husband poison, was continued today to January 16. The continuance was asked for by the district attorney. Mrs. Gibbons was very self-possessed when she entered the court room and seated herself toward the front of the room.

CLOSE CALL IN BATTLE

GRANDSON OF MRS. ALEXANDER HOSACK SURVIVES BIG ENGAGEMENT UNINJURED

An excellent and most interesting description of his experience in one of the big battles of the great war is contained in a letter written to his parents by Corporal George M. Hosack, Jr., grandson of Mrs. Alexander B. Hosack of 703 East Harvard Street, who has kindly given it to the Glendale Evening News for publication. The letter bears date of October 11. Corporal Hosack enlisted in a Pennsylvania regiment and when last heard from was in an officers' training camp at La Volbronne, Aisne, France. In the course of his letter he says:

"Have just returned from fifteen days in the very front of one of the biggest battles of the war.

"It certainly is heaven to be back safely after coming through it, and I surely have God to thank that I came through safely without a scratch, and had some close shaves, let me tell you. At present I have two bullet holes in my breeches and one in my blouse.

"We came out of the line day before yesterday and got out of shell fire last night. It seems great not to hear the big guns and to be ducking machine gun bullets.

"We went over the top the first time after a wonderful artillery barrage lasting all night. The noise was terrific. It was just one continual rumble and the sky was red with the flashes of the guns. If I had not been through it I couldn't have believed the noise and the number of guns. Words can't begin to describe it. Such a picture of destruction it is impossible to imagine, as was 'No Man's Land' and the German trenches, machine guns, pill boxes, barbed wire entanglements, trees, cheval de frise, etc., absolutely blown to bits and the ground itself pitted with innumerable shell craters. It was impossible to find ten square feet of ground that was not filled with debris or shell craters. It was a picture of destruction that would have made the very devil himself envious, and you can imagine what the Boche thought of it. It would have been a physical impossibility to cross 'No Man's Land' had it not been for the barrage that destroyed defenses and practically every living thing. The boche trenches were absolutely destroyed in the front.

"As we advanced we met with some resistance, principally machine guns. Fritz had abandoned his lines, leaving a few cannon and machine guns as sacrifices. His trenches and dugouts were marvels of hard work. Dugouts 80 feet deep and equipped with everything. In one dugout entered we found a piano and hot coffee, so you can see how close we were on his trail. We also found a lot of eats. As we hadn't had very much to eat on account of our rapid advance, we sure did pitch into them. We found a regular ration dump. A lot of the provisions must have been for officers. We found bread, hardtack, butter, wine, champagne, cigars, cigars, etc., so managed to scramble together a good meal.

"As we kept advancing the resistance gradually increased, but we had Jerry on the run and we both knew it. As it was we had a mighty hard sector to advance over on account of the terrain. And we were continuously harassed by hidden machine gun emplacements and snipers. To make it worse Fritz was using ex-

GERMAN BRANDS ON ENGLISH PRISONERS

The following extract from a letter of a friend in London has been furnished the Evening News by Miss McConnell of this city, and brings the first "direct" news we have had of German atrocities to English prisoners:

"Every one is in great spirits; only the thought of our poor prisoners' suffering makes us all mad with the Germans worse than ever. They can never be forgiven. Several men have come home with their poor faces branded all over with the German eagle, Kaiser Wilhelm or 'Gott strafe England.' One of Kate Mann's prisoners (she has 12 to whom she has sent parcels of food regularly) came to see her. He arrived before breakfast one morning. But he was one who had been in Holland lately; his tales were too dreadful of what they had gone through. Did you read last week one lady's account, I wonder? She was in a canteen in France when a number of poor men arrived scarcely able to crawl; in fact, 15 of them died while they were being fed. Isn't it awful for their poor friends and relatives?"

HIGHER WAGES

PACIFIC ELECTRIC COMPANY ASKED TO PAY HIGHER WAGES TO ITS EMPLOYEES

Pacific Electric Railway Co., Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 31, 1918.

Dear Mr. Cowan: Am handing you herewith a statement prepared by this company concerning a matter of vital importance to your community.

The National War Labor Board has set for hearing on Jan. 3, 1919, in the Union League Building, Los Angeles, complaint of our trainmen for increased wages, which, if granted, will mean a very radical increase in all of our passenger fares and freight rates in order to produce the necessary revenue to meet the same.

I would ask that you read this statement very carefully and bring matters therein to the attention of your representative men and women with the urgent suggestion that a representation be made to the National War Labor Board at this hearing both as to the living costs and the effect a radical increase in our rates will have on your community. Yours very truly,

O. A. SMITH.

The introductory paragraph of the inclosure referred to in the above letter reads as follows:

To the residents of the Counties of Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside, and to the employees of Pacific Electric Railway:

The Pacific Electric Railway is confronted with a problem, the just solution of which is vital to the continued existence of that company and vital to the welfare of the communities it serves.

On December 27 the Pacific Electric Railway received a telegram from the secretary of the National War Labor Board stating that a complaint had been filed by six employees of this company, complaining of inadequate wages and demanding that the employees of the Pacific Electric Railway be paid the same wages paid by the Southern Pacific Railroad, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Puget Sound Lines, and other lines of railroad operated by steam railroad companies on the Pacific coast. This telegram stated that the case would be tried on Jan. 3, 1919, giving seven days' notice of a trial, the results of which may be far-reaching and may result in placing excessive burdens and inconvenience upon the people of Southern California.

As you all know, the business of the Pacific Electric Railway consists largely of passenger traffic, divided about equally between local street car service and interurban passenger service. For the year ending June 30, 1918, more than 73 per cent of the revenue of the Pacific Electric Railway was derived from passenger fares less than 9 cents each.

In June, 1918, the Pacific Electric Railway increased substantially the wages of all its employees, making the annual pay roll of the company, as compared with that of December, 1915, greater by $1,500,000, based on the same number of employees. The revenues of the Pacific Electric Railway were not sufficient to meet the June increase of wages, and therefore the railway filed its application with the California Railroad Commission asking authority to increase freight and passenger rates. After extended hearings the Railroad Commission adjusted and increased its freight and passenger rates to produce an estimated additional revenue of $1,300,000 per annum, which estimated increase in revenue is $200,000 less than the June increase in wages alone.

Following this are several pages of printed matter of an explanatory nature, which we do not have space to publish.—Editor.

ELKS' SUPPER AND DANCE

One hundred and seventy-five members and friends of members surrounded the banquet tables, beautiful in their floral decorations and subdued lighting, which were spread for the big turkey dinner at the Elks' club house New Year's eve. While it was in progress cabaret entertainers furnished a much enjoyed program of music and fancy dancing, and at its conclusion the diners adjourned to the lodge hall, where ball room dancing, interspersed with entertainment numbers by the Los Angeles entertainers, filled the hours until the clock struck 12, when a pandemonium of horns and whistles registered joy in the advent of a new year, and the air was filled with bright-colored confetti. It was a brilliantly successful social affair.

What about your New Year's resolution on the second day of the year? Surely you have not broken it yet.

WONDERFUL SILENCE

The announcement that is being made by the Pacific Telegraph and Telephone Co. by phone to their subscribers seems to be meeting with a wonderful silence. The announcement comprises the very discouraging news that all residence party line phones will be listed at $1.75 per month instead of $1.50 per month as heretofore. This new ruling went into effect January 1 of the present year. The most startling announcement, however, was that, beginning with February 1, all Glendale subscribers will be required to pay a 10 cent tax or toll for each Los Angeles call. A representative of the telephone company said that after giving many notices by phone they had learned of only one subscriber who objected to the enforcement of the new charges. This indeed showed a marvelous silence on the part of subscribers, and probably may be explained by the fact that there was no need of wasting time in objecting to the announcement made by a representative of the company. Indeed, it showed good business tact on the part of the subscribers, for it is very well known that there is no one residing in Glendale connected with the company that has the power to change these rulings. However, from what the Evening News has learned the people of Glendale are going to have something very emphatic to say about the charge of a 10 cent toll to Los Angeles. If the subscribers did remain silent when notified by the company as to the change, they have not remained silent so far as reporting objections to the Evening News.

As things now appear there will be a united effort made by the citizens to get justice on the phone question, and as to what methods will be pursued the writer is unable to state at present. But there will be a systematic method adopted and all lovers of fair play will be supporters of the plan.

ENCOURAGING PUBLIC WORK

As showing the interest which the government is taking in reconstruction and readjustment, the following letter addressed to the Glendale mayor by the War Labor Policies Board will be of interest:

"The government desires to obtain information in order that the demobilization of our troops and the re-employment of war workers may be accomplished to the greatest advantage of the men and women concerned and of their home communities.

"After peace conditions are fully restored there will doubtless be general industrial activity and a good demand for workers. In the meantime there will probably be a period of readjustment and transition when the development of necessary public works may afford useful employment and hasten the resumption of industry on a peace basis. Much necessary public work has been delayed on account of war conditions. New public works are generally contemplated. If all these delayed public works are done in 1919 they will employ many workers and give peace orders to important industries heretofore largely engaged upon war orders from the federal government. Not only will your necessary public works employ workers in your own locality; not only will they help to steady the employment of workers now engaged in certain important industries, but they will also enable these industries to take on additional workers from among returning soldiers and munition workers. The purchasing power of all these wages creates a demand for other products and thus sets in motion other industries and employs additional workers.

"Now is the time when necessary public works are of great advantage to the workers, the industries and the country. A sound program of public works will ease the transition from war to peace. The aggregate of the public works of the towns and cities is greater than that of the state and federal governments combined. Therefore, to the chief officials of each town and city belongs the privilege of making such a national program successful."

PRESIDENT TO ADDRESS ITALIAN PEOPLE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

Aboard President Wilson's Train Bound for Italy, Jan. 2.—Pursuing the same course he has followed in France and England, President Wilson will talk directly to the people of Italy as well as confer with their leaders. He will make an effort to clear up every possible misunderstanding entertained by the Italians concerning his peace program.

The President is thoroughly enjoying his trip, and King Victor Emanuel's private train, which was placed at the disposal of the President, is very luxurious and comfortable.

CHAIRMAN KITCHIN SCORES IN HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 2.—Chairman Kitchin of the House ways and means committee won the first round in his fight to prevent revision of the postal zone law today, when the House adopted a rule to send the new revenue bill to conference without a separate vote on the Senate zone amendment.

GREAT DAYS IN FRANCE

small ministry is a sacred thing. The American army certainly has some of the finest, cleanest, most wholesome fellows in the world. America may well be proud of her soldiers.

Nov. 28.—This is the evening of Thanksgiving Day. In many ways it has been a unique day, it not being a French institution. It has been a great day here, and must have been so in the States.

Last evening I called on Bishop E. H. Hughes at his hotel, and found him in bed with a heavy cold, but think he will be normal in a few days.

autumn leaves, dead wood cut away, and other work being done to make the grounds as attractive as possible in the winter season.

The chapel in the Palace shows that even in the midst of riot and revelry men make a show of religion. The chapel is chaste and refined in architecture and furnishing. The seats are all upholstered, but without backs. There is a beautiful stone gallery around it, albeit with a flat floor. The people evidently were to hear the preacher but not to see him. In the gallery above the altar is an attractive looking pipe organ. The style of it would be appropriate and very becoming for a modern

He is wearing a Y. M. C. A. uniform. One can get over France in no other way.

Nov. 30.—Yes, these are great days to be in France, especially so in Paris. Yesterday I saw the King of England and the President of France. But there is mighty little of the pageantry of kings in connection with English royalty now. The ride of the two noted men was by way of Champ Elysees, Rue Rivoli, Rue Royale, by the Madeline Church to Hotel de Ville. The streets were blue-gray with the uniforms of soldiers who lined the streets as guards. At certain corners there were small groups of mounted Moroccan troops, quite picturesque. But there was little pomp or show about the parade. A small troop of a dozen or so mounted police preceded the carriages and about the same number brought up the rear. There were four or five carriages. English royalty is learning the meaning of democracy, and I presume kingship as known in England will be among the last to go. King George is said to be quite a democrat and to have a great hold on the English people.

It is announced King Albert of the Belgians will be here next week. He will receive a tremendous ovation. He is a popular figure here and rightly so. I should like to see him and catch the spirit of the occasion. I cannot say whether I shall be here or not. It looked last night as if I might be here for some time in the headquarters office. But Mr. Wolfe seems to have some special task cut out for me. It may take me to Bordeaux and then to some other part of the country. Of course the end of the war has made many changes in the work here, and the "Y" leaders have to adjust things. I am now with Dr. Taylor. I would enjoy being here when President Wilson comes. He will arouse a tidal wave of enthusiasm. He is regarded as a great man, a statesman of clear vision of the world's program and needs.

Dec. 2.—I have been helping some of the "Y" men off for home today. Some of them have seen great things; some have been gassed, others wounded; some have war decorations, many carry fine letters from officers commanding sectors where they have worked. The "Y" certainly has made good. Of course there have been some failures, but the army story of the "Y" would make a great book. All the men who came over with me are scattered.

After the church service yesterday three of us went out to Versailles. We visited the chamber where the Germans made the French sign their treaties after the Franco-Prussian war. I presume in the same room Germany will be made to sign under the direction of the Allies. "The mills of God grind slowly, but they grind exceeding fine." There is certainly a terrible irony in the edicts of destiny. Sowing and reaping are just as certain among nations as in the harvest field. When I first went to Versailles many of the statues were camouflaged and hidden, but now they have been uncovered. Preparations are being made for President Wilson's coming, and for the peace conference. The inviting walks of the grounds are being cleared of church. It has been one of the crimes of the ages that luxury, riot, revelry and oppression have so often used the garb of religion. The bloody days of the French revolution were the world's answer to such mockery in the name of Jesus of Nazareth. And now the chapel is an object for the gaze of the curious—never open to the feet of those seeking to worship God. It certainly seems a shame that such a place, where men might climb to the throne of God, a place of such worth, should be as silent as the tomb—except for the footfalls and voices of the curious. Perhaps God is teaching men that "He dwelleth not in temples made with hands."

At the "Y" service last night I met three California boys, and of course we were glad to see each other. There is quite a clannish feeling over here among Californians.

Dec. 3.—Tonight at the Palace du Glace (the "Y" place for entertainment of soldiers in Paris) I could not help noticing how many fine young fellows there are in our army. It is just great. I am in love with the boys, and because they are such a splendid lot I am glad the war is over.

F. J. W. Henry of the Sierra Beverage Co. had the unusual pleasure of entertaining an old friend from his home town in Scotland, viz: Archibald Dindsay of Broughty Ferry, who visited him during the day and left the same evening for Northern California.

Mrs. Sampson of New York City has been a resident of Glendale for about two weeks. She is now occupying a bungalow at 618 South Adams Street, which is owned by her son, who lives in New York and who agreed with her it would be advisable for her to come out and look after the property to which both are attached.

The very pretty dancing party given New Year's eve at the Keller School of Dancing on Brand Boulevard was well attended and much enjoyed by the young people who participated. Aside from a few female impersonations by little Robert Lehman, the entire evening was devoted to ball room dancing. The hall was beautifully decorated in the holiday colors of red and green. Refreshments were limited to punch, which was sold for the benefit of the Rebecca Orphanage. A piano, horn and drum furnished the music. Miss Gertrude Champlain presiding at the piano.

Mrs. Warren Roberts was hostess at a pretty dinner party on New Year's day, at which her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Archer; her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Scott, were guests. Poinsettias were lavishly used in the holiday decorations, which were confined to red, green and white color scheme carried out in bon bon dishes and other appointments. The dinner was served at 1:30 o'clock and was followed by an afternoon of music and social chat.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Wheeler of 327 North Cedar Street were host and hostess at a New Year's party at which games and music furnished the diversions of the evening. Green and red were the keynotes of the effective decorations. Those present were: Miss Mabel Wheeler of San Jose, who was guest of honor; Misses Grace and Ella Franklin, Ray Franklin, Misses Gladys, Neva and Margaret Ferris, Herbert Cummings, Donald and Dorothy Wheeler. Refreshments were served at 12 o'clock by the hostess.

On Monday evening Mrs. M. L. Weaver gave a party in honor of her son, Chester, and his two friends from the naval radio school at San Francisco, U. P. Borset and H. H. Headings. Decorations were smilax and poinsettia. Those present were Hattie Orth, Marcella Orth, Louise Gonzales, Marie Oliver, Dorothy Woods, Ruth Nickolson, Anabel McLellan, Hubert Woods, John Bender, Sabin Buck, Verne Wilson, Chester Weaver, V. P. Borset and H. H. Headings. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and candy were served.

QUESTIONS IN GENERAL SCIENCE

Following are the questions in General Science for pupils of the high school for Thursday, Jan. 2, 1919:

Write a composition on fuels from the following outline:
 1. Wood. (1) From economic standpoint; (2) why it should be conserved; (3) as a heat producer; (4) charcoal—(a) how made (b) heating qualities.

2. Coal. (1) Its formation (2) various kinds; (3) smoke nuisance, how averted; (4) as a heat producer; (5) coke.

3. Oil. (1) From economic standpoint; (2) how formed; (3) how used.

4. Gas. (1) natural—manufactured; (2) how carried to houses; (3) where and why generally used.

What is meant by destructive distillation?

What is meant by "banking fires"? How may this be detrimental to health?

Why does silver tarnish more readily in winter than summer?

What are the products of distillation of petroleum?

Why is a non-luminous flame best for heating, and how can it be obtained?

Name the four most important fibres used in clothing. Name the various plants or animals from which they are obtained.

Discuss the various materials made from these fibres as to: (1) how obtained; (2) uses; (3) texture; (4) when and where used; (5) their care in washing and pressing.

What are mixed goods or fabrics? Give the chemical tests for the various fibres.

THE WORLD'S NEW YEAR

(By Lillian Dodge Schmitt.)
 A Happy New Year, World, a New Year bright
 And glorious with the glow of Freedom's light!

For four years, ushered in by cannon's roar,
 Each New Year's dawn has seen
 Death's angel soar
 O'er ruined battlefields, has read the sigh

Of suffering millions; yes, and seen men die!

Now Peace hath put an end to War's dark night!

A Happy New Year, World, a New Year bright!

A glad New Year, Oh! World, a glad New Year!

Without the sound of sob or falling tear

From helpless, trusting childhood's big, sad eyes,

Not comprehending War's grim sacrifice.

See! From their sheltering caves at last they run

To warm their chilling bodies in Hope's sun!

Their faces bright with joy, not blanched in fear:

A glad New Year, Oh! World, a glad New Year!

San Jose, Cal., Jan. 2.—Martin Murphy, clerk in the superior court here, has renounced all desires to be the champion prize fighter of the world. Murphy attempted to demonstrate his best punch to Murphy, Jr., who, being an apt pupil, but the punch into practice, decorating Murphy, Sr.'s forehead with his glove in such a manner that present holders and claimants of the heavyweight belt may rest assured that Martin Murphy, Sr., will not endanger it.

plosive bullets. These, besides making a wicked wound, made it very difficult to locate his guns—hard enough to place at any time.

"On our advance we took a large number of prisoners. They all were glad to be captured. In fact, one of them had stayed behind with all his equipment packed up, in a dugout, just waiting for us to come along to surrender. He sure was a nervous and frightened German, withal quite happy. Our chaplain, who is one of the finest men I ever knew, took back one batch of prisoners. It was quite funny. All he had was a cigaret case. He gave each one a cigaret and said 'come on boys.' When he got them back he fainted and was sent to the hospital. But he refused to be left there so long as his boys were in the line. If ever a man was loved it is Father Simoni of the Third battalion. He goes to the front with bullets zipping all around as unconcerned as if he were walking down Fifth Avenue. He is a wonder.

"Our boys were wonderful all through the fight—always ready for whatever came along, regardless of the weather, and it did rain for several days. It wasn't very pleasant lying in a mere rifle pit for a couple of days with no blanket or tent. But it was part of the game to beat Fritz, so we bore it cheerfully. But it surely was hell. And we were greatly cheered by the news that Bulgaria had surrendered.

"Jerry lost a lot of men, both killed and captured. He played some dirty tricks, too; pretended to surrender and then threw potato mashers (as his hand grenades are called.) However, they didn't go back. We accounted for them. Whenever Jerry played square he got square treatment.

"If you see any of Floyd De Witt's people please tell them he died as a soldier should (leading his men over the top). He was the finest ever and every man in the company was broken up over his death. There wasn't a better liked man in the outfit. I helped to bury him and it was the hardest job of my life, as he was my best friend. He died as a man should."

EVENTS AT ST. MARK'S

The Woman's Guild of St. Mark's Episcopal Church will meet this (Thursday) afternoon for the annual election of officers to serve during the coming year.

The annual parish meeting of St. Mark's Church will take place at the church Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The dinner which was to have preceded the meeting has been postponed indefinitely.

NEW THOUGHT

"The Healing Touch" was the subject of Dr. Frank L. Riley's lecture at Masonic Temple Sunday morning last. The discourse was prefaced by a few words referring to his previous lecture, "The Inner Significance of Christmas Day; or the Soul's Awakening: the New or Spiritual Birth."

The spiritual birth may be manifested suddenly—as the truth was revealed to Paul—or very slowly as the majority of souls experience.

He likened spiritual awakening unto the gradual opening of the rose petals, which day by day expand until the full flower turns to the sun, the universal light and life, the symbol of God or Good.

We should not go about on Sunday with measured step and wearing a long face; we must be joyous, happy, spreading sunshine wherever we go. And when we assemble here on each Sunday morning let us strengthen our minds for loving thoughts and patience to meet the difficult problems which may arise during the week; let each day in the week be a Sun-day.

There is good found in all religions and I often think of the religions of the world as a great mosaic figure, each one perfectly fitted and blended as to make one harmonious, divine whole, with the center which may be Christianity or Christ principle.

Are thoughts things? Thought is the power which molds into form the created object before it is manifested upon the physical plane.

As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he. Good thoughts based upon love will radiate from the eye, the smile, the touch, and leave a healing influence and sunshine in a suffering-darkened life. A man may have good thoughts and do good works, but if he have not the deep feeling of love within his soul, his healing touch will be more mental than physical.

Do pain, sickness and disease exist? The statement cannot be denied. They are thought forms

Who cares for the farmer?

That's what a farmer I know asked the other day. "Nobody," he went on. "The Army is being brought home. Industry is being reconstructed. Good jobs are found for labor. City folks are told what to eat. But who cares for the farmer?" "I'll tell you," said I. "It's

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

"Some folks forget who feeds the world—but not THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN.

"It's for the American farmer first, last and all the time—fighting his battles with him, sitting down with him to plan for next season's crops, helping him to find markets, and demanding fair, living prices for farm produce. You just bet somebody cares for the farmer—THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN does." That man bought a year's subscription—52 helpful issues for only a dollar. I'd like to show you why you'll like it, too. brought into manifestation, either consciously or unconsciously, by the carnal mind. Medicines are not entirely ignored by the metaphysician, but are given to allay temporary pain or when the patient has not overcome his faith in medicine. The perfect man is the manifestation of the spiritual, divine or God-mind. By thinking pure thoughts and performing loving deeds the soul unfolds to the divine light and the spiritual eye sees only the perfect being beyond the error, and such a life can dwell above the plane of error, and banish pain and sickness from others by the divine healing touch.

The healing touch is manifested in a little child full of love and sunshine.

—“Surely he hath found wisdom who provideth abundance for his own household and ruleth with love in his own Home”—

Build a home not alone for shelter, but because it is the greatest thing in life to do.—

Eventually—Why Not NOW?

“What doth it profit a man even though he has seen the palaces of many kingdoms, but has not a cottage of his own.”

Eventually you are going to realize the truth of this philosophy.

Eventually you are going to want a home.

Eventually you will see the wisdom of home ownership as against the folly of renting.

Eventually you will build a Home of your own, if you are a real citizen.

Eventually so—why not now.

With apologies to W. C. Co.

DESIGN NO. 355

This home has five rooms. The living room, dining room and kitchen on the left side, with two spacious bed-rooms and bath on the other side. All rooms connected by a small hallway. This home, while of the latest type of Colonial bungalow, still is economical to build owing to its straight lines and absence of porch.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The homes illustrated here each week are selected from the designs of the Lumbermen's Service Association. Any information, floor plans or cost to build will be gladly furnished by either of the local members of this association:

CO-OPERATIVE ADVERTISING

Every new home built in Glendale means business for the carpenter, contractor, brick mason, plasterer, hardware merchant, furniture store, lumberman, dry goods store, grocer, etc. It means an added civic attraction, greater permanent citizenship stabilizes and increases realty values—in fact helps every business and individual in the community.

That is why the progressive firms and civic boosters support this page.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

“No Man Liveth Unto Himself Alone Nor Can He Buildeth Unto Himself A Home.”

When one builds an attractive Home, part of one's pride is shared by one's neighbors, for one's home becomes a part of the community, and an asset to the town.

It will be pointed to with pride, and spoken of as “One of our Homes” when strangers come among us and are being shown about town.

Every citizen desires a Home as attractive as his means will afford, and to every resident or property owner the interest of the community should be at heart.

Does it not occur to you, that by making your own Home and property attractive, by improving your vacant lots, that you not only enhance the value of your property, but you encourage your neighbor to do likewise, thereby increasing the development of your city at large?

The benefits are not alone that of making the city a more desirable place in which to live, but it is the source of good publicity, encouraging others to locate here, increasing our population with a desirable class of citizens,—home lovers.
